

The Brazil Institute of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars in partnership with the University of São Paulo's Centro de Estudos da Metrópole and the São Paulo Science Foundation, FAPESP present:

“Trajectories of Inequality in Brazil”

PROGRAM
TRAJECTORIES OF INEQUALITY IN BRAZIL

9:00am: Opening Session

Welcome, by Paulo Sotero, Director, Brazil Institute

The book content: Trajectories of Inequality in Brazil, by Marta Arretche, Professor of Political Science, University of São Paulo

9:45am: First Session - The policies on Politics

Chair: Maria Herminia Tavares de Almeida, Senior Researcher, Brazilian Center of Analysis and Planning (CEBRAP)

Political Participation, by Fernando Limongi, Professor of Political Science, University of São Paulo, and José Antonio Cheibub, University Professor of Political Science, University of Illinois

Councils, associations, and inequality, by Adrian Gurza Lavalle, Professor of Political Science, University of São Paulo

Discussants: Daniel Gingerich, Associate Professor and Director of Quantitative Collaborative, University of Virginia and Matthew Taylor, Associate Professor of International Service, American University

11:15am: Coffee Break

11:30am: Second Session: Education Policy

Chair: Matthew Taylor, American University

Education and inequality in Brazil, by Naercio Menezes Filho, Professor, Institute of Education and Research, INSPER

Educational stratification among youth in Brazil, by Carlos A.C. Ribeiro, Professor of Social and Political Studies, Rio de Janeiro State University (UERJ)

Discussant: David Lam, Director of the Institute for Social Research, University of Michigan

1:00pm: Lunch Discussion: The current Brazilian crisis

Carlos Eduardo Lins da Silva, Special Advisor, FAPESP; Paulo Sotero, Brazil Institute; Matthew Taylor, American University; Sergei Soares, Visiting Fellow, Center for Global Development

2:00 pm: Third Session: